7th International Social Security Symposium of The Social Security Institution of Turkey

“Migration and Social Security”

April 25, 2018, Wednesday

09:00 - 09:30 Registration of Participants

09:30 - 10:30 Welcome remarks

10:30 – 12:30 Immigration and Current Trends Throughout the World and in Turkey

People who cross borders for the purpose of work or who escape threats to their lives may encounter many challenges in destination countries, largely due to a lack of information on living and working conditions. Many of them may face discrimination and social exclusion. Being in employment does not guarantee access to basic rights as found in labour and social security laws of the host country. Further, weak social harmonization may create many problems for host communities. This introductory part will give a general introduction on migration trends and challenges with regard to social security faced by migrants around the world and in Turkey.

12: 30 -13:30 Lunch

13: 30- 15: 00 Session I: Role of Social Security and Social Protection for Integration of Migrants

Equality of treatment and non-discrimination, maintenance of acquired rights, maintenance of rights in the course of acquisition and transportability of benefits are among basic key social security principles. The discussion will focus on the role of social security and social protection for the integration of migrants and the objective will be to share knowledge and experiences.

15: 00- 15: 15 Coffee Break

15:30 – 16:30 Continuation of Session I and end of the Session

April 26, 2018, Thursday

09:30 -11:00                Session II: Effects of Immigration on the Labour Market and Social Security System from the Perspective of Host Countries

Migration is a growing phenomenon that has important development implications for both sending and receiving countries and if well managed, migrants can greatly contribute to the development of both sending and receiving countries. However, to achieve this, challenges in the integration of migrants have to be addressed and overcome. Challenges may include job competition between migrant and national workers, migrants' adaptation to the labour market and fiscal costs associated with the provision of social services to migrants. This session will focus on the relationship between migration and the labour market as well as the provision of social security. Case studies and academic studies will be discussed.

11:00-11: 15                Coffee Break

11:30 -12:30                Continuation of Session II

12:30 -13:30                Lunch

13:30 -15:00                Session III: Good Practices in Social Security for Migrant Workers

Migrants require special social security arrangements so that the risks they may face due to their situation are adequately addressed. As migrants move between labour markets, they may be confronted to problems due to differences in labour laws and social security systems. The objective of this session will be to share knowledge on good practices on social security coverage of migrant workers.

15:00 - 15:15                Coffee Break

15:15 – 16:30                Continuation of Session III

16:30 – 17:00                Closing Remarks
